

Africa Energy Efficiency Policy Training Week

23–26 November 2026 | Johannesburg, South Africa

Are you a professional working on energy efficiency policy making in Africa? Are you eager to deepen your expertise and enhance your skills to drive significant impact in your country's energy sector? Join us in person at the next Africa Energy Efficiency Training Week taking place in Johannesburg, South Africa from 23-26 November 2026. This event is co-hosted by the International Energy Agency (IEA) and the Department of Electricity and Energy of South Africa. We welcome applications, especially from women.

Co-hosted by the International Energy Agency and the Department of Electricity and Energy of South Africa.

Apply here:

Africa Energy Efficiency Policy Training Week 2026 - Event - IEA

Choose from 5 parallel courses

Buildings: covers building design, technologies, policies, and investment strategies to achieve net-zero emissions.

Appliances & Equipment: prepares participants to advance appliance energy efficiency policies, covering regulatory design, information dissemination, and incentives to increase appliance standards.

Industry: focuses on energy efficiency in various industry sectors through energy audits, management systems, public reporting, and innovative financing.

Transport: explores improving vehicle energy efficiency, including electrical, regulation of vehicle imports, and policy package development.

Indicators & Evaluation: equips participants with tools to use data and evidence for energy efficiency policymaking, including monitoring implementation and impact, and developing national energy efficiency indicators.

PRACTICAL INFORMATION

In-person event

Training delivered in English; applicants must have a good command of English

Training is free of charge

Participants cover their own accommodation and travel expenses

Don't miss this opportunity to learn from global best practices, network with experts, and contribute to a more sustainable energy future!

electricity & energy

Department:
Electricity and Energy
REPUBLIC OF SOUTH AFRICA